William "JR" Eyerly is a Technical Sales & Service Account Manager for Haviland Products Company based in Grand Rapids, Michigan. When JR joined Haviland in June 2001, he brought along sixteen years of sales and surface finishing experience that encompassed a broad range of processes.

Prior to joining Haviland Products Company, JR started his career as a laboratory technician with a surface finishing company and was responsible for maintaining chemical solutions vital to the operation of the company.

He later moved into the position of Environmental Manager where he was challenged with the task of managing discharge compliance as well as the responsibility of maintaining related government reports. While in the position of Environmental Manager, JR oversaw the design and installation of a new waste water treatment system which created more efficient ways of handling generated waste. The new system resulted in a reclassification from a large quantity to a small quantity generator of hazardous waste.

Sales and Marketing Manager was the next challenge that JR accepted as a chance to help grow with the company. JR built relationships with customers as he provided valuable information and production updates in helping his customers choose the right process for their application.

JR's knowledge of the surface finishing industry combined with his desire to learn quickly enabled him to become General Manager within the company. His passion for maintaining an efficient and desirable workplace led to an increase of production rates while providing a pleasing work environment.

JR's combined twenty-three years of sales and technical knowledge has proven to be a valuable asset to his customers.
